

Earth is Dancing Article Questions- Opening Activity

1. How old is the earth?
2. How is geological time measured?
3. What is the Precambrian Eon and when did it end?
4. Name the divisions of time.
5. Does each of these time units have the same number of years?
6. What are they measured by?
7. Take a look at the geological clock. It is said that today there is more impact on the earth than any other time. Why?

Earth is Dancing Article Questions- Opening Activity

1. How old is the earth?
2. How is geological time measured?
3. What is the Precambrian Eon and when did it end?
4. Name the divisions of time.
5. Does each of these time units have the same number of years?
6. What are they measured by?
7. Take a look at the geological clock. It is said that today there is more impact on the earth than any other time. Why?

Earth is Dancing Article Questions- Opening Activity

1. How old is the earth?
2. How is geological time measured?
3. What is the Precambrian Eon and when did it end?
4. Name the divisions of time.
5. Does each of these time units have the same number of years?
6. What are they measured by?
7. Take a look at the geological clock. It is said that today there is more impact on the earth than any other time. Why?